

Mobile Response & Stabilization Services

Helping youth & families right where they are

What is MRSS?

Mobile Response & Stabilization Services (MRSS) is a comprehensive program available to youth ages 0 to 21 and their families. MRSS staff meet with youth and families in person wherever they are to provide intensive services to address emotional and/or behavioral issues that require intervention. Families can stay with MRSS for up to 60 days.

What behaviors will MRSS help with?

Here are just a few examples of the issues and behaviors that the MRSS staff will be able to help:

- Escalating emotional or behavioral issues
- Mental health issues
- Addiction and substance abuse
- Physical and emotional trauma
- School truancy
- Running away from home
- Parent/child or caregiver/child conflicts

How do I get started with MRSS?

The first step is your call. When you dial 877-695-6333, you will talk with a trained staff person about what's happening, and take your contact information. They are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Within a short time, an MRSS staff person will be in touch with you to make arrangements for responding to where you are, daytime through late evening. The staff person will gather any critical information and will make arrangements to meet you at an agreed upon location.

What happens when they respond?

The MRSS staff person will arrive and immediately assess and work to diffuse the crisis, escalating emotions or behavioral issues. They will then work with you and your family to develop an individualized plan that stabilizes the situation, and they will connect you to appropriate community supports and resources.
